About People and Things

Dog Bites Man— Dog Dies

Louie Bailey is the kind of man you just can't keep out of the news. His close friend, Jim English, reports that Mr. Bailey's pet dog bit his master last Friday and died within thirty minutes.

Mr. Bailey claims the report is somewhat in error. He was playing with the dog at his home when the dog bit him on the hand, breaking the skin in two places. He said he thought nothing of the matter at the time, but when the dog took a running fit and died (more than thirty minutes) later, he became alarmed. Mr. Bailey said he doesn't think the dog was mad, but just to be on the safe side he is taking 14 hydrophobia shots which are causing him considerable soreness in the midriff section.

Kill Giant Rattler

Lucius English and Louie Bailey report killing a mammoth rattlesnake Monday. They saw the snake crossing the highway in the bottom near the Tup Plant home. Mr. English said he tried to run over it with his car, but missed it. He stopped and backed up, and by maneuvering around he ran over it with the front wheel. This seemed only to anger the snake which struck at the tire and rim several times. He then drove the car upon the rattler and stopped with the back wheel directly on it, crushing the life out of the snake. Messrs. English and Bailey said the rattler was about six feet long and had more than a dozen rattles.

Has Been

Representative H. B. Larkins, Principal S. J. Casey and Charles Hayes went fishing Saturday below Pea River dam with good results. Mr. Larkins was proudly exhibiting a prize five-pound trout Saturday night. Professor Casey caught a three-pound beauty which would ordinarily have been considered a big fish, but which was declared by Mr. Larkins catch.

Fishing Hard Work

Mr. and Mrs. Dana Perdue spent the week-end on the gulf coast on a fishing trip. Mr. Perdue said that when he reached a point about four miles from his destination his motor went dead. After spending much time on an unsuccessful effort to get it to start again he broke out the oars and made his way in against an adverse tide. He described it as a strenuous experience. The next day at the cottage he tried the motor again, and, motor-like, it ran as sweetly as if nothing had ever been wrong with it.

Army Surplus Store

The Bargain Store is the style of an Army Surplus and second hand clothing store operated by R. H. Moore located across the street from the bus station. New men's and ladies wear and used clothing and shoes are offered at bargain prices. Aluminum ware and many other articles are also handled. An oyster bar, operated by Ed Hardy, expert oyster opener, and a sea odds market, operated by Mr. Moore, are run in connection with the bargain store. Messrs. Moore and Hardy invite everybody to call and look at their stock, whether they buy or not.

Little Shots Play

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Kendrick were members of a party who spent the week-end aboard the Governor's palatial yacht at Mobile. Terry said the yacht is supposed to be for the use of the "Big Shots", but on this occasion the "Little Shots" had their inning and enjoyed it immensely.

Ida Ann Clark Is Elected President Of Senior Class

Elba High School's senior class held their first meeting of the year Friday morning for the purpose of electing officers. For several days it has been evident that considerable interest was being taken in the election.

Ida Ann Clark, Ben Johnson, and John Morrow were the nominees for president. Miss Clark was elected by a close margin. Ben Johnson was elected vice-president, Louise Dardoff secretary and Harold Devane treasurer.

Even though interest was keen an excellent spirit prevailed throughout the election and the class is anticipating a pleasant and profitable school year.

W. G. Mathews Hurt In Automobile Wreck

W. G. Mathews, of Elba, was slightly injured Wednesday in an automobile accident. According to highway patrolman Mooneyhan, Mathews lost control of the automobile while driving on the Elba-Sanson highway, and ran down an embankment and into the woods. It is said that the car, which belonged to Bill Willis, so far as George Wise, ran into a pine tree and was almost completely demolished.

Mathews was carried to an Enterprise hospital where attendants said he sustained abrasions about the face and ears, but no serious damage was considered. Wise, who was also an occupant of the car, was said to have been badly shaken up, but was not seriously injured.

Elba - New Brockton Have Two Wins Each In Tri-C Play-offs

A large crowd of baseball fans saw the New Brockton team win the fourth game of the Tri-C play-offs Sunday afternoon and tie up the series at two all. The birds got off to a bad start when Harry Bullard was struck on the hand by a ball off the bat of Otis Williams during batting practice and was unable to start the game. Billy Morrow was given the starting role and performed well, but costly errors and loose fielding on the part of his teammates contributed to five of the New Brockton runs scored off his offerings. Second baseman Elton was the worst offender with three costly bobbles.

Bullard relieved Morrow in the seventh inning. New Brockton added two more runs in the last three innings. Jimmy Boswell led the Redbirds at the plate with a triple and a double. Several other members of the team added nice blows at the bat, but they were outplayed on the field and at bat.

The fifth and deciding game of the series was scheduled to have been played in New Brockton Thursday, Sept. 22, but has been postponed. No announcement has been made as to when the game will be played.

Brantley Kicked To Elba To Start Second Half

Brantley kicked to Elba to start the second half, but a fumble gave them possession of the ball. They failed to gain and punted to the Elba eight with Farris, Brunson, Conner and Flowers sharing the ball carrying duties. Elba drove to a third touchdown. Flowers going over for the score and putting Elba in the lead 19 to 0.

The Two Teams Played on Fairly Even Terms for the Remainder of the Game

Coaches Reynolds and Buckner used their reserves freely and they performed well. Two exceptional plays were carried out by Conner, who made a 17 yard dash through the line, and Flowers, who showed considerable broken field ability in returning a punt 15 yards.

The Tiger line played a good game, chugging through and smearing the opposing backs for losses on several occasions. Their downfield blocking also was a decided improvement over recent years. Devane played an outstanding game at end position. Farris lived up to expectations and played a fine defensive game as well as leading the team in offense. Flowers did a fine job at the quarterback position but made several costly fumbles. A little more game experience should make this year's Tiger team one of the best in this section.

The new stands were completed the day before the game and took care of most of the 1800 people with comfort. The added parking space was also a great help.

The Elba band performed during the game and put on a show at the half. They were well received.

The Tigers take on the Dothan team in Dothan tonight. Comment on the game is largely limited to how bad the Tigers will get beat. Elba has an outstanding team but is short on capable players. The Elba and will probably be able to hold Dothan to even terms in the early part of the game. Dothan can field a fresh team at intervals and will probably be able to wear the Tigers down in the latter part of the game.

Next week the Tigers play the Luverne team here on Friday night.

Elba Tigers Open 1949 Season With 19-0 Win Over Brantley

To Play In Dothan
Thursday; Luverne
Here Sept. 30th

The Elba Tigers started the season here last Thursday night with a 19 to 0 victory over a large but inexperienced eleven from Brantley. An unusually large crowd of 1800 people came out to witness the game. Elba fans seemed to be well pleased at the performance of the team. Elba jumped to the lead in the first quarter when Farris crashed over left tackle for 30 yards and a touchdown. A few plays later Conner had fumbled on the Brantley nine to stall off an Elba drive. Brantley covered the fumble but were unable to gain and punted. Farris started the drive with a 15 yard run and culminated it with the 30 yard gallop across the goal.

Brantley missed a scoring opportunity in the second quarter when they failed to gain on the Elba seven. In turn fumbled on the first play. Elba punted out of danger. Elba's second touchdown came in the second quarter with Farris again making his way through the opposing line. This run was for 34 yards and elapsed a drive starting on the Brantley 30 yard line. Flowers and Brunson picked up a first down on the Elba 41. Conner failed to gain in two attempts at the line; then Flowers hit Brunson with a pass in the flats and Brunson carried 34 yards to the Elba eight before being hauled down. A second pass went incomplete, after which Farris came through with his second long run that counted for six points.

Brantley kicked to Elba to start the second half, but a fumble gave them possession of the ball. They failed to gain and punted to the Elba eight with Farris, Brunson, Conner and Flowers sharing the ball carrying duties. El

Public Is Irked As Policemen Try Blue Law Support
HATTIESBURG, Miss. — Police tried to enforce Sunday blue laws, but the shows went on and patrons got into the acts.
Shutting back and forth in a steady rain from their theaters to the police station, 24 managers, proprietors, and ticket sellers and takers were arrested, released on bond and arrested again for a total of 48 times. Three proprietors made the trip eight times.
Three policemen reported that movie patrons peppered them with tomatoes.
At the Saenger theater, a projectionist locked himself in the projection room in an effort to keep the show going. A policeman simply dotted his cap and used it to block the projection outlet. The screen went black. Patrons booed and yelled.
While police got on ax and crowbar and prepared to break down the door, the theater opened the room, pealed, the projectionist was taken off to jail.
While he was gone, organ music was played and couples danced on the stage.
To prevent their ticket sellers from being arrested, some theaters in the city had officers accept "free will" donations at the entrance.

HATTIESBURG, Miss. — Police tried to enforce Sunday blue laws, but the shows went on and patrons got into the acts.
Shutting back and forth in a steady rain from their theaters to the police station, 24 managers, proprietors, and ticket sellers and takers were arrested, released on bond and arrested again for a total of 48 times. Three proprietors made the trip eight times.
Three policemen reported that movie patrons peppered them with tomatoes.
At the Saenger theater, a projectionist locked himself in the projection room in an effort to keep the show going. A policeman simply dotted his cap and used it to block the projection outlet. The screen went black. Patrons booed and yelled.
While police got on ax and crowbar and prepared to break down the door, the theater opened the room, pealed, the projectionist was taken off to jail.

Goose Skins With Down On Available Soon
ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Goose skins, over an important commercial item in the past, may soon prove to be of great value to the poultry farmers of the nation.
Goose skin production has been hampered by two things: Not enough geese and lack of a practical way to tan or preserve the delicate skin. Exhibitors at the international baby chick association convention showed how these two obstacles now may be overcome.
First an incubator company of Gettysburg, Ohio, displayed an incubator to hatch goose eggs. Ray Petersime, vice-president of the company, explained that before this the hatching has been up to the parent geese. Regular incubators didn't work with goose eggs, he said.
Tanning Technique
Then a goose farm of Zarephath, N.Y., demonstrated a tanning process for the goose skin. To skin a goose, you first pull the feathers off carefully, leaving the thick fatty down in place. Next you separate the skin, with the down still attached, from the body of the goose. Then you tan it by the patented process.
Tanned and with the down still attached, goose skins can be used for powder puffs, baby booties, trim on women's hats and negligees, baby caps and the like. Poultrymen at the convention said there was a big future for goose skins. They said the down holds onto powder, for example, just the way it should to make an ideal puff.
The Petersime incubator has a device which turns the goose eggs. The temperature and humidity are controlled to make things ideal for the unhatched geese. And, Petersime said, the incubator has "a mild breathing air movement."
Other poultrymen at the convention said the future is bright in the goose business. Cotton farmers are discovering, for example, that geese will eat the grass and weeds in their fields but not the cotton.
The down on their skins, they said, can be colored pink, blue or whatever the buyer wants. A goose skin is about the size of an open telephone book and, once tanned, is fairly durable.
George Scheuffe, proprietor of the goose farm, also exhibited a method of canning goose meat. Other goose experts among the 3,200 poultrymen here for the con-

Lady Rosebery said she keeps a gun in a secret hiding place near her bed for just such emergencies.

Strange Beasts Frighten Connecticut Villagers

EAST GRANBY, CONN. — The beast that has no name but which is often heard here—what is it?

Unusual residents in the Lake Basile section of this town were asking those questions after reports that there was a strange animal in the neighborhood. The best description given was that the "what-ever-it-was" gallops like a horse and has the claws of a bear.

No one had seen it. Some had heard it. But there for all to see were its clappings on the soft dirt road.

Morgan J. Horne was among those who reported hearing it at 10 minutes past midnight.

"It was nothing like I have ever heard before," he said. "My wife had a horrible look on her face."

The animal's breathing, he reported, was "terrific, almost unbelievable" and a lot heavier than that of a horse.

When he heard this galloping noise and the heavy breathing, our English shepherd dog, Buddy, went crazy," said Horne. "He almost went through the screen."

Sportman Ronald L. Miller said: "Must be either a bear or a gorilla."

He used to do a lot of hunting when he lived in Maine.

If it's a bear, said Miller, it's a big one—more than 6 feet tall.

Canada's Baby Bonus Failing, Record Shows

OTTAWA — Canada's baby bonus program passed its fourth birthday without any sign of achieving its goal—promoting larger families. And so far it has cost more than a billion dollars.

Since 1945, when the family allowances were introduced, there had been only one sudden jump in birth rates—between 1945 and 1946. That was attributed to the postwar reunion of many families.

An indication family allowances are not producing the expected effect is that fewer children were born in Canada in 1948 despite the fact there were more people in the country.

Fire Department Called To Cool Off Turkeys

HAGERSTOWN, MD. — The fire department was called out to cool off 6,000 turkeys.

As the mercury climbed to 100 degrees, 500 gobblers in Adam Martin's nearby farm keeled over and died.

"Psychic research people wish of birds, put in a hurry call to city officials. They sent out a fire truck. The firemen, or other trouble-makers, were shooting cooling streams of water into the air over the survivors."

Imagine!

A visitor who had come to New York to see the sights boarded a Fifth Avenue bus in a slightly limp condition. He talked to the driver about this and that until the driver, was forced to suggest that he go up to the upper deck to enjoy the fresh air and view. He had a happy jag on so soon.

Driver's request, "But hardly ten minutes had passed before he was breathing into the driver's ear again."

"What's the matter?" asked the driver, "get tired of it already?"

"Oh, no," the drunk assured him, "I like it a lot up there. But between you and me it ain't safe. There's no driver."

Azizia, Near Tripoli, Holds High Heat Mark

WASHINGTON — You think you live where it's hot? You should live in Azizia.

That's a town in northwestern Libya, about 25 miles south of Tripoli, where the highest temperature ever recorded under standard conditions was taken September 13, 1922. On that day the thermometer soared to 136.4 degrees, the national geographic society reported.

If you prefer to confine your research on heat extremes to the United States, visit Death Valley in southeastern California. An official reading of 134 degrees has been taken there at the weather bureau station on the valley's edge.

Even higher temperatures, ranging up to 150 degrees, may occur in the low-lying interior.

For those interested in seeing how low the temperature can drop, place in the northern Siberia village of Verkhoyansk. Thermometers there hit 90 below zero in February, 1902—a reading still recognized as the world's record.

These are the meteorological champagne—the official temperature extremes—but there are plenty of other claimants to thermostatic fame.

Along the coast of the Persian gulf in southern Iran, for instance, unusual temperatures of 150 to 180 degrees have been taken in the boiling sun.

Ignatius, The Ghost, Ired By Publicity

LONDON—Ignatius, the friendly ghost, is annoyed at all the publicity he's been getting. Mrs. Irene Bradshaw, 39-year-old wife of the vicar of Elm, reports.

Ignatius warns of impending deaths the parish by telling his phantom bell, Mrs. Bradshaw contends.

Twenty-seven times the death knell has sounded—27 times a vicar has died. But Mrs. Bradshaw is the only one who can hear the bell.

Since Mrs. Bradshaw told reporters of her little claim, hundreds of curious men and women have invaded the quiet vicarage in Cambridgeshire.

"I don't want any girl friends, and Ignatius needs no girl friends," Mrs. Bradshaw wrote London newspapers. "I am a very busy woman, with a beautiful house and no maid, who has not time to answer the door to visitors who ask, 'Have you an evil eye?'"

"Strange men send me their telephone numbers," stranger men ask me if they can spend the night here," she added furiously.

"Psychic research people wish to hear me. People send letters to Ignatius asking if he will cure them of falling hair or other trouble."

Many people have invaded the vicarage and vicarage gardens. Hooligans have broken down a tomb, and Ignatius is annoyed. Instead of keeping to his corridor, he came to my bedside and, after brooding down some photographs, told me how foolish I was to let him get into the news."

Mrs. Bradshaw said she first met Ignatius about two years ago when she bumped into him in a dark corridor in the church. They struck up an acquaintance which has lasted ever since.

Ignatius, she said, used to be a monk in the church several centuries back. He was assigned the bell-ringing job, but once forgot to ring it to warn of approaching floodwaters. He keeps trying to make up for this mistake by warning of approaching deaths now.

Uranium Discovery Prize Spurs Prospector Army

CHICAGO — With the atomic energy commission offering $10,000 rewards for each acceptable discovery of uranium deposits, a growing army of amateur prospectors annually is buying more than $200,000 worth of a new-type Geiger counter designed to aid them in their search for the deposits, it was learned yesterday.

The instrument, called a nuclear "sniffer," weighs 2 pounds, can be carried in a coat pocket and generates 1,200 volts from two flashlight batteries. In the presence of uranium and other radioactive substances the counter emits clicks through a telephone head set.

Four young Chicago scientists developed the counter, John Kuranz, 27 years old, a physicist and vice president of the Nuclear Instrument and Chemical Corporation of Chicago, which the scientists have built into a million-dollar yearly business, said the counter was being distributed through large department stores.

Since 1970 there has been a steady flow of Alabama's rural population to the urban areas.

The 1920 legislature passed a law prohibiting grist mill operators from taking more than one-eighth of the grain they ground as payment for that service.

Woman to Get Back Ring She Lost Fifty Years Ago

ESCANABA, MICH. — Mrs. Oscar Hornblad, Esplanade, will soon receive the gold wedding ring she lost as a bride in Sweden 50 years ago.

Word was received from Sweden that a farmer who bought the ring on a prong of his harvesting machine. It was as shiny as the day it left the jeweler's shop, the honest finder reported. He identified the ring and is sending it forthwith.

Flooded Basement Falls To Interrupt 'Bookie'

CHICAGO — Police raided a flooded basement here and arrested a bookie operator taking bets while seated on a raft.

Police Capt. Thomas Aleck said that Arthur Olson, 33, was "padding furiously" between three telephones, taking bets on the horses.

Aleck and two detectives raided the place after getting a tip that a bookie was operating in a tavern basement. With a crowbar they broke through a trapdoor in the tavern and dropped into four feet of water.

Olson, hustled to the police station, said the basement was flooded by last night's rains. He said he made the raft himself.

Delicate Operation Untangles an Artery Choking Girl Child

(By Mrs. Rayford Stephens)

BOSTON. — The once tangled heart of a baby girl has been freed by a famed surgeon in a "risky" operation which cut a "ring" which might have squeezed out her life.

Sandra (Sandy) Kaplan, six-month-old blond daughter of a noted athlete, was reported in "good condition."

"We think she's cured," the spokesman said after the hour and a half of surgery by the noted specialist, Dr. Richard Sweet, severed part of a great artery from the heart which threatened to choke her.

It was the fourth such operation in the history of the hospital.

Sandy is the daughter of Bernard Kaplan of New Rochelle, N. Y., a one-time football star for the University of Western Maryland and later a pro star with the New York Giants.

From birth the girl was afflicted with an "aortic ring" which caused fits of near-strangulation and difficulty in swallowing.

The hospital spokesman said any of those attacks could have been fatal. He described the "aortic ring" in this fashion:

The sorts is the principal blood vessel, or artery, of the human heart in a normal person it arches across the heart and then passes in front of the windpipe (trachea) and gullet (esophagus), and are joined by a band of tissue.

But the girl's sort had split and divided in such a way that it passed both in front and behind the windpipe and gullet, thus enclosing them in a ring. This ring squeezed against the two essential breathing and swallowing tubes of the throat.

Drawing It Close

(By Mrs. Rayford Stephens)

"Boss," the bookkeeper said as he entered the manager's office with a broad grin on his face. "You remember the big Christmas order we got from the Police company?"

"Of course I do," replied the manager. "What about it?"

"That was the order that finally put us in the black," the bookkeeper announced proudly.

"Wonderfully," beamed the manager. "Now we can throw out that cursed bottle of red ink and run and get a bottle of black."

"I'm afraid that wouldn't do," said the bookkeeper meekly. "If I went out and bought a bottle of black ink we'd be in the red again."

Spectator—"Have an accident?" Victim—"No thanks, I just had one."

THAT DID IT! The boss had reached the climax of his campaign to keep the office clean. He spotted a smoldering cigarette but near a chair of one of the workers and demanded if it was his.

"No," said the worker, "you may have it."

Delay In Trade A young boy, jingling two pennies in his pocket, walked up to a farmer and pointing to a tomato hanging luxuriously from a vine, said,

"I'd like to have that tomato. How much will you charge me for it?"

"Five cents," replied the farmer. "But I have only two cents," said the boy hopefully.

"Well, you can have that one over there," said the farmer, pointing to a small, immature specimen. The boy plunked the two cents in the farmer's palm and said, "Okay, I'll buy that one and come back in a week for it."

The next time they met on the street the defeated girl smiled sweetly and said, "I've just learned that you married James. I suppose he never told you that I turned him down once."

"No, he didn't," the other girl admitted. "He once told me that he had many narrow escapes during his life, but he never told just what they were."

Told You So The $15 commutators' train usually was tranquil and even restful. This morning, though, a squall of infant kept the business man's nerves on edge. All efforts of the mother failed to stop the screaming. One man, who had been trying to concentrate on the problems that lay ahead for him, stroked back to the seat when the commutator was emanating and grinning, whistled and did other things to amuse the child. The thunderstorm stopped very suddenly and the man walked back to his seat, proud of himself.

Just as he neared his seat he heard the mother call to the child, "See! I told you the bogey man would get you if you didn't stop."

Scientist Says Children Not Taught How to Listen STATE COLLEGE, PA. — Although children spend most of their time in school listening, few teachers ever have bothered to teach the science of constructive listening education, says Dr. W. H. Wilt.

As a result, Dr. Wilt said, "many children half listen or daydream through the day's activities."

Dr. Wilt, of Pennsylvania state college, advocates classes in listening. She said it is inherent in almost every classroom activity, and as such, should be taught.

"The effectiveness of the teaching of listening," she said, "can be measured in terms of new learnings, better adjustment to environment, personal pleasure, and satisfaction and behavior."

Blazing Meteor Of Fireball Size Seen in Wisconsin

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—A large meteor blazing across the southern sky was seen by many people in four other midwestern states, as well as in Milwaukee.

Because of its brightness, the Milwaukee astronomical society said the meteor was large enough to be classed as a "fireball"—a meteor that can be seen before dark.

Traveling at about 2,500 miles an hour, the fireball entered the earth's atmosphere somewhere east of Chicago at about 8:08 p. m., according to Edward A. Halbach, director of the society's observatory near the town of New Berlin (Wisconsin county). It disappeared on the southern horizon less than one minute later.

Earl Needham, a member of the society, said that the light from the fireball appeared about as intense as a photographic flash bulb exploded 100 feet away. Dozens of persons called Needham, Halbach and other members of the society to report seeing it.

The fireball probably was the size of a man's head, Halbach said. He explained that ordinary meteors are about as large as a grain of sand. Like the fireball seen here, they enter the earth's atmosphere and become incandescent from friction with the air at high speed.

Usually they burn out before reaching the earth, Halbach reported. But he said that the fireball probably struck the earth before this could happen. Early reports indicate that it may have fallen in the southwest corner of Wisconsin, Halbach said. The society was to conduct a search for it if later observations bear this out.

Fireworks Celebration Disrupts Air Liners

HOOD RIVER, ORE.—A fireworks celebration by the "Crag Rats"—a mountain-climbing organization—disrupted airline traffic near Mount Hood and convinced one pilot he was seeing a new form of "ripping saucers."

Paul Thresh, a Northwest Airlines pilot flying west into Portland, reported to the tower there that he had seen a strange cluster of red lights as he approached Mount Hood area. This caused him to turn his plane to follow them, he said, "but they ran away from me."

Thresh's report temporarily halted several flights at the Portland airport. The tower thought at first that a plane had been in distress and would have to use the port for an emergency landing. This caused the tower to clear the field for several minutes and passenger flights were held up until it became apparent that no plane was involved and police solved the mystery.

Love was apparent in every move the young man made. His visit to the jeweler confirmed everybody's suspicions. The jeweler, himself, was a very good friend of the young man's family. "Now wait a minute, son," he told the moonstruck youth. "It's pretty expensive but I'll give you a good price. I think you will be very pleased with it."

"All right," replied the young man. "I'll take it. And will you have 'From Frank to Jessica' inscribed inside it, please?"

"Now wait a minute, son," cautioned the jeweler. "don't go overboard on this thing. As I said before, this is an expensive ring. Why don't you be satisfied with just 'From Frank to it'?"

Indeed, Isaiah says God hates it; he is "fed up" with it (vs. 11). What was wrong? Isaiah tells them that, too, in short simple words. "Your hands are full of blood."

Oh, the people would protest. We are not killers, we don't lay a hand on anybody. Isaiah goes on to explain: seek judgment (Is. 1:16), relieve the oppressed, judge the fatherless, plead for the widow.

You don't kill outright, you characterize, he would say, but you are so indifferent to justice in your city, you take so little interest in the people at the bottom of the heap, that people die here, widows and orphans die, simply because no one cares.

What Makes a Town Worth Saving?

A hundred and more years went by, and Jerusalem came close to its end. But nobody thought that disaster could strike. The belief had grown in every one's mind that the Temple of the Lord would forever insure the safety of the city in which it stood.

But a young prophet, Jeremiah, preached a sermon on the same theme as Isaiah's (Jer. 7). It is not the temple that will save you. It is not church attendance that will bring you safety from God.

As the men of Jerusalem looked back to the great days of Moses, they thought of the sacrifices and offerings, the tabernacle and the rituals and all the paganism and superstition of a picturesque religion, as the great thing that God had given them.

But God remembered it other wise. Jeremiah even says (with understandable exaggeration) that I am just as "just" as a man and his neighbor. "A place where that can be found is a good place."
